What's New at the Hill

While waiting for international travel to resume, you can make a trip to Dempsey Hill and explore the new restaurants and flavours brought to you from other corners of the globe.

TUGA

Flavours of PORTUGAL

Offering only the country's finest, TUGA brings to the Dempsey enclave an authentic Portuguese experience comprising food, music, art and wine. Portuguese wine is hard to come by in Singapore, which is why the restaurant is committed to stocking its cellars with an extensive collection from the major wine regions of Portugal, shipped directly from the port of Lisbon. The country's location on the Atlantic Ocean has influenced many aspects of its culture – salt cod, grilled sardines and other seafood dishes are characteristic of Portuguese food. Indulge in the bounty from Portugal's sea with the signature Arroz de Marisco, a seafood rice casserole lovingly prepared with fresh prawns, mussels and clams soaked in flavourful seafood stock. Try also the delicious Pastéis de Bacalhau, which are salt cod fritters made from a heavenly combination of codfish, potatoes and onions.

The History OF THE HILL

In the 1850s, the British government bought over Mount Harriet and started construction for Tanglin Barracks. The first barracks were built in the area where Dempsey Hill and Loewen by Dempsey Hill are currently located. After Singapore's independence, the Singapore government gained ownership of Tanglin Barracks.

Tanglin Barracks remained unused until the Ministry of Defence made the compound its headquarters in 1972. The property housed the Central Manpower Base, where 18-year-old boys starting their National Service reported to the military.

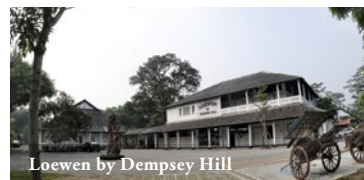

Immerse yourself in Singapore's history this National Day at Dempsey Hill.

Where Past MEETS PRESENT

Loewen by Dempsey Hill

Take a heritage walk around the former Tanglin Barracks. Be sure to visit Loewen by Dempsey Hill, which was home to the SAF Music and Drama company back in the 1970s. An established art company, its famous alumni include illustrious local celebrities such as Jack Neo, Dick Lee, Najip Ali and Gurmit Singh. Loewen by Dempsey Hill also occupies an area where the old military hospital used to stand, when Singapore was still a British colony in the 1800s.

Chang Korean BBQ

After all that exploring, you'll want to pop by Chang Korean BBQ for hearty, traditional Korean fare. With a thoughtfully-planned menu, meat lovers can choose from premium cuts of meat grilled over charcoal while there are options aplenty for vegetarians.

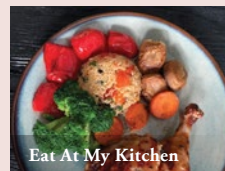

Then, continue your journey to the parade square of the former CMPB, where anxious parents gathered to see their 18-year-old sons off for conscription. Standing in its vicinity today are antique and home furnishing stores such as Maywell Lifestyle, Hedger's Carpet Gallery and Woody Antique House.

Share Bits AND BITES

Rich in history but renewed with a modern touch, Dempsey Hill is the perfect place to reminisce the good ol' days. Gather your family and share your memories over brunch. Choose from jones the grocer or Eat At My Kitchen for classic brunch options; Da Paolo Dempsey for authentic Italian staples; or Chopsuey Café for quirky Anglo-Asian fare.

Wind Down AT SUNSET

Learning for the Little Ones

At Dempsey Hill, there are play centres, kid-friendly restaurants and more, but it's not just fun, fun, fun. We check out some of the quality education and enrichment centres in the Loewen by Dempsey cluster.

Invictus International School

Personalised LEARNING

Invictus International School is an institute of learning that is centred on its students. Every learner is developed holistically and given opportunities to flourish – which is why, starting in August, Invictus is introducing Personalised Learning Programme (PLP) in their curriculum to benefit slow learners, students with learning disabilities and those learning English as an additional language. Located in the lush expanse of Dempsey Hill, learning at Invictus takes advantage of its natural surroundings to let nature be the best teacher for your child.

Arts-based PROGRAM

Launched in 2014 to give all children a right to education, Melbourne Specialist International School (MSIS) focuses on arts-based therapy to teach numeracy, literacy and independent living skills. A child-centred approach is employed, where teachers use the power of concrete experiences mediated through dance, drama, music and visual arts as a way to immerse our students in learning. Every student is given an individual learning program that focuses on their specific needs. Over time, the program aims to bring the child one step closer to the ultimate goal: becoming a self-sufficient and happy adult.

WHAT'S HAPPENING ON THE HILL

Sights of COLOMBIA

ARTitude Galeria

Bringing the vibrance and colours of Colombia to Dempsey Hill is ARTitude Galeria, the newest art gallery in town. ARTitude is dedicated to bringing Latin American Artists to the heart of Asia, spicing up the local arts scene. But, if you're expecting only bold colours and strokes representative of Colombian street art, you're in for a surprise. The contemporary Colombian artworks available for viewing and buying come in other diverse styles and shades too. As much as ARTitude is an art gallery, it is also a platform to build up a community of street artists – both internationally established and budding young artists alike – for them to develop, evolve and hone their craft. Visit ARTitude Galeria to get a glimpse into the everyday sights that greet the typical Colombian as he walks down the streets in Colombia.
